31st Annual Tri~State Consortium Lectureship Brunch

Dr. Connie Sobon Sensor believes in the power of nursing to improve the health of the world's people. She is certified as an Advanced-Level Transcultural Nurse (CTN-A) and is a recognized expert in the power of culturally responsive nursing to meet the challenges of a global society, focusing on cultural health beliefs and practices, cultural etiquette, and strategies to gain acceptance into ethnic communities. She has published and presented widely on culturally responsive health care, leadership, and global health initiatives, including the United Nations (UN) Millennium Development Goals, and the UN Sustainable Development Goals.

Mr. Timothy Shi is youth representative to the United Nations for STTI. Through his role he has spoken both nationally and internationally, and has spoken at the United Nations during the 65th Annual DPI/NGO Conference. Most recently, he spoke at the 2015 Sino-US Summit Symposium on Quality Care & Nurse-Patient Communication.
